INTRODUCING the chick mission

The Chick Mission idea “hatched” when Founder Amanda Rice’s fertility preservation coverage was denied by her insurance company. She understood the treatment plan of chemotherapy, radiation and long-term drug therapy would likely render her infertile and chose to cover the costs on her own.

Knowing other patients may not pursue preservation simply because of the cost barrier did not sit well with her... socioeconomic standing should not dictate opportunities to have biological children after a person battles cancer!

In response, The Chick Mission was born to...

Assist

patients with the cost of fertility preservation through our need-based Hope Grant Program

Educate

patients about fertility preservation options ahead of cancer treatment & keep conversation at forefront of women’s health issues

Advocate

on behalf of women using our passion and shared experiences to influence legislative change across the country

HOW OUR MISSION makes an impact

“Despite having only 48 hours to make a life-changing decision to preserve my eggs for future children, I felt a sense of hope. I still had hope that one day I would become a mother. I had hope that this wouldn't lead to deep regrets of me not attempting to do everything that I could to be a mother. I still have this hope.”

“You meet communities like the Chick Mission who believe in your strength and walk alongside you on the road to (and through) survivorhood. And one day – to parenthood. THEY give you hope. THEY inspire you. THEY believe that you will get to this moment, too.”

Emily | Cancer Survivor, New Mom

“When I was diagnosed with breast cancer, I lost hope and tried to mount the impossible task of preparing to lose my life. When I realized I would live, but perhaps not have the chance at a family, I felt I couldn't handle the emotional roller coaster and began to lose hope again. The Chick Mission stepped in and brought light to a dark situation. The Chick Mission means the world to me, and I will be forever grateful for their support.”

A ladies only fête for fertility futures

The Chick Mission's highly anticipated ladies only cocktail party returns to Ladurée Soho on Wednesday, May 20, 2026.

Gathering 200 passionate peeps, including executives across industries and the next generation of leaders, this annual event garners great interest, often resulting in a waitlist!

Our sponsorship opportunities offer local and national companies a chance to show their support of women's healthcare advocacy and access, aligning our brand values through digital and on-site recognition.

Beyond the outlined levels, customized underwriting and sponsorship packages are available upon request. Contact us at events@thechickmission.org to discuss a partnership that best align with companies' philanthropic and marketing goals. Thank you!

GET TO KNOW past corporate sponsors

Our mission engages companies across sectors looking to improve women's healthcare experiences and brighten their fertility futures. Our sponsors not only contribute to our growing Hope Grant Program through direct financial sponsorships, but also partner with us through employee engagement opportunities and educational events.
